Carmel City Council

Setting a season record for brevity, the City Council at its regular meeting last night dispatched a routine agenda in just under three hours. A considerably more lengthy session is anticipated for Friday, August 19, at 8:00 o'clock, date set for the first of two hearings on the 1960-61 budget, which must be filed by September 1.

Four ordinances were considered at last night's meeting. The interim zoning ordinance was extended until November 30 to permit completion of precise zoning for the central district, and goes into immediate effect. Proposed amendment of an ordinance regarding tree-planting squares, intended to provide adequate size and spacing without inducing a rigid pattern in sidewalk landscaping was referred back to committee for further study. Continued were proposed amendments to ordinances requiring underground telephone connections for new construction, and adjustment of residential driveway grades.

Suspending order of agenda, the council—in the evening's only rhetorical skirmishing — discussed request for a driveway variance from developers of the Carmel Plaza to permt a 35-foot temporary driveway for ingress and egress for the parking area off Mission Street until completion of the plaza's proposed parking garage. Councilman Gunnar Norberg protested that granting variance without first making a tour of the premises would be "a special favor", but Mayor Frank Putnam, backed by Councilman Francis Whitaker, felt a hardship would ensue if the parking facilities were not made accessible as soon as possible. The variance was approved, over Norberg's "No! Certainly not!"

Request from the Board of Supervisors that the city submit through its attorney a brief supporting the county's billboard suit vs. Foster & Kleiser was referred to City Attorney John Morse, who will report back on the amount of time and money such participation would involve.

Hopes of developing Junipero Avenue between Third and Eighth Avenues as an eventual parkway here were implemented with approval of a program calling for continuation of the center dividing strip between Second and Third, construction of center islands at the corners of Third and Fourth, and planting of pines and oaks within a 16-foot center strip between Seventh and Eighth.

Council also heard an urgent request from Street Commissioner Whitaker for a policy statement regarding relative liability of the city private property owners in sidewalk repairs involving damage by trees. Several important sidewalk repair projects are being delayed, he said, pending clarification of this matter. The problem was referred to a joint meeting of the Committee on Lands and Improvements and the City Attorney.

Following approval of the 1960-

Mrs. Klemme's house and garden will be among the seven gardens and two houses on display from 10:00 o'clock in the morning until 6:00 in the evening. In addition, the tour will include a Flower Show in the former A. King Macomber log mansion in Pebble Beach. Mrs. ver Mehr is general chairman for the MPVS tour and flower show which will benefit the Visiting Nurses Association of the Monterey Peninsula.

Intergarden transportation will be provided in Carmel if reservations are made by telephoning Mrs. F. J. H. Rhodes, MA 4-7445 or Town House. Transportation in Pebble Beach, without reservations, will be provided from the corner of Palmero Way and Cypress Drive.

A preview of the tour gardens, for MPVS members only, will be held on Tuesday, when a caravan will leave the Carmel Point home of Mrs. ver Mehr, Ocean View Drive north of Scenic Drive, at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

If anyone wants someone to keep minutes of the proceedings, there will be no lack of professional talent at City Clerk Larry Rose's cocktail party this afternoon. Among his guests will be seven city clerks and their wives.

They make up a subcommittee, of which Carmel's city clerk is a member, appointed by the League of California Cities to prepare a handbook for city clerks. They have been working on it for two years, and the manual itself is completed, but there is a five chapter supplement still to be approved, of which two chapters have been accepted. The committee rejected the other three at the Berkeley meeting in February. The three revised chapters will be on the agenda when the committee holds its meeting tomorrow in Carmel City Hall.

This is the first time Carmel has been host to the subcommittee which has been meeting alternately in Berkeley and Los Angeles.

The city clerk committee members and their cities: Francis Greiner, San Jose; Gladys Murphy, Oakland; Arthur Todondi, South San Francisco; Virginia Stroheckker, Riverside; Helen Reick, Inglewood; Lawrence Thomas, Pomona; Harold Campbell, Lynwood, and Larry Rose, Carmel. Also attending: Howard Gardner, associate director of the League of California Cities, and Don Benningshofer, Field Representative of the League of California Cities.

Youth Center Board Approves Budget, Drive

The Youth Center adult board's budget committee yesterday tentatively decided that $12,000 - $13,000 is the amount required to run Carmel's teenage recreation center for the coming year and that the major part of this money must be raised by a fund drive before school starts in September. They also made provision in the budget for the salary of a permanent woman assistant for Jack Giles, Youth Center director of activities.

The budget committee analized last year's costs for operating the center, compiled by Chris Nedderson, to arrive at the sum set yesterday. Operating costs, over and above last year's figures, provided for in the coming year's budget, include the woman director's salary, added operating expenses for the recently enlarged Youth Center premises and increased insurance coverage.

James Buffington is chairman of the budget committee. Members who met with him yesterday were Mrs. Ian Belangee, Dr. Robert E. Newton and Councilman John Chitwood. P. A. McCreery, president of the adult board, and Director Jack Giles also attended the meeting.

This morning Mr. McCreery stated that he will call a special meeting of the adult board in city hall next week to accept the tentative budget and set the dates of the fund drive.

Suggested opening date for the fund drive is August 16 when the youth council will be hosts at a steak barbecue at the center for members of the Carmel Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs. This is a repeat of a similar event ten years ago.

Mayor Frank Putnam, also president of the Rotary Club, will be

Robert Kvenild Protests High Cost Of Administration

Last night Carmel school trustees adjourned to 5:00 o'clock Monday afternoon after approving a $1,567,300 budget for the coming year, appointing members to the Citizens' Educational Committee and deciding to discontinue the pupil insurance program. On Monday they will consider eliminating certain school bus routes in Carmel Valley and Pebble Beach, also decide whether or not to re-employ Neil Jensen as Sunset School science teacher to replace Martin Marcus who resigned during the summer.

Dr. Grant Fletcher reported to other trustees that everything now seems clear in regard to the option to purchase the Metz property in Upper Carmel Valley for a new school site. Trustees also awarded to Granite Construction Company, low bidder, ($6,560.00), the tennis courts construction job at Tularcitos School. They also agreed to increase by ten cents the hourly wage of all school food service personnel.

At the public hearing on the budget Robert Kvenild wanted to know why administration costs appear higher in Carmel district than in other Peninsula districts. Chairman Ted Fehring explained that Carmel is the smallest district, "awkward" in size, administration costs, therefore, are higher, percentagewise. Howard Reed, district accountant, said he could substantiate this as he had made a study of district costs.

Members appointed to the Citizens' Educational Council are Jack Wickham, Mrs. Herbert Blanks, Dr. Richard Bell, Dr. Howard McFann, Mrs. Louis Gardner, Mrs. Howard Benedict, Dr. Sidney Kalmbach, Mrs. Barbara Sherman, Tom Brown, Mrs. Jean McKenzie, Mrs. Betty Oenning and Mrs. Floyd Harber. They will first study report cards and homework in the elementary grades, later consider discipline and review the curriculum, all in cooperation with trustees.

The school district will discontinue the pupil insurance program previously carried with the California Interscholastic Federation Protection Fund, annual cost $3,500.

Trustees voted that parents may assume the responsibility if they so desire. Today the district office is writing for information materials from the insurance company. These materials will be sent to all district parents at the earliest date possible, assistant superintendent Wayne Greenfield stated this morning.

Senator Farr To Get Ruling From Attorney General's Office On Parking Permit Plan For Carmel

Senator Fred Farr gave the Parking Permit Subcommittee of the Carmel Citizens' Committee its first encouragement in two years, last week, when he agreed to ask the attorney general's office to research the legality of their proposal.

The proposal, the charge of yearly parking fee for the use of the Carmel city streets for parking, was first presented to the city council by Councilman Gunnar Norberg as a counter move to Councilman John Chitwood's campaign for parking meters. Both were proposed as revenue raisers to finance parking lots.

The overwhelming protest of both the business and residence community killed the parking meter proposal last January. Since then the Citizens' Committee has again presented its much poohpoohed parking license idea, and received the usual answers from an unsympathetic city council: it would be impractical to administer and it wouldn't be legal, anyway.

In an effort to dispose of the last objection, Councilman Norberg conferred with a former Stanford school friend, Herbert Wenig, assistant attorney general, and was told that if the City Attorney would draw up a summary of the proposal and send it to the state attorney general's office, he would see that it was "researched."

When Norberg and the Citizens' Committee asked the city council to direct the city attorney to make the request, three members of the city council refused to support even this harmless proposal. Newly elected city councilman Attorney Eben Whittlesey backed Norberg to the extent of wanting a legal opinion on the proposal. Two other councilmen supported Chitwood, who dismissed it with "I wouldn't give it two seconds' thought."

On the suggestion of Russell Zaches, Monterey City Attorney, who was acting for vacationing Carmel City Attorney John Morse, the Citizens' Committee asked Senator Farr to request advice from the state attorney general's office.

VALLEY VOLUNTEERS AND PILOT MARKET IN LITTLE LEAGUE PLAYOFF

Playing for the right to advance to the District Playoffs at King City next Saturday, the Carmel Valley Volunteers and Carmel's Pilot Market nines mix it up this Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at the Carmel Little League Park. The Volunteers earned the playoff spot by whipping the Valley Red Sox last Saturday to win the title in the Valley's four-team circuit. Pilot Market won the second-half Carmel Little League championship and went on to defeat Wilder & Jones' first-half champions to win the 1960 championship.

The Valley Volunteers, sponsored by the Carmel Valley Fire Department and managed by Wallace Marvin and Gordy Miyamoto, will be making their second bid for a chance at the District Playoffs. In the 1959 playoffs, the Vols clashed with Jack Miller's San Carlos Realty club and came out on the short end of the score. However, this year's Volunteer squad is the best to come out of the Valley and will be favored to finish in front of the little Pilot crew. David Marvin, a big fast-throwing righthander, will toe the slab in Saturday's playoff, and, off his performance against the Red Sox, he should be quite a problem to the Pilot hitters. In Bard Sherman, the Volunteers have a power hitter with a string of home runs for the current season. While leading the Vols to the championship last Saturday, the husky centerfielder stroked a double, triple, and homer to drive in the winning runs.

Playing for Pilot Market and representing Carmel will be Ronnie Fukagawa, Curt Mitchell, Terry Mosolf, Ron Parsons, Scott Lemmons, Steve Mason, Mike Spowart, Chuck Pearson, Tim Head, Kevin Hale, Bob White, and Bob Gamble. Either Tim Head, Curt Mitchell, or Ron Parsons will draw the pitching assignment for Saturday's crucial tilt. Art Carpenter and Floyd Carter pull the strategy strings for the Pilot nine.

CARMEL TENNIS PLAYERS WIN TOURNAMENT

A pair of Carmel tennis players swung strong rackets in tournament play this week as Annette Stoesser, playing in the Public Parks Junior Tournament at Arcadia, won the 18-and-under singles by outlasting Betsy Lindsay of Los Angeles 7-5, 6-3, and Jane Albert, in Seattle's Washington State Tennis Championships, won the junior girls 15-and-under title by beating Vancouver's Vicki Berner 6-1, 6-3.

Annette has been a top tennis star at Santa Catalina School for several years and comes from a family of avid tennis players. Her brother George was the top junior player in this area while in prep school and is now the number one racket-wielder for the University of Arizona. Annette's father is the inspiration behind the tennis-playing family and spends countless hours on the courts in striving to improve their shots. Jane, daughter of ex-49er boss Frankie, has made rapid strides under the tutelage of John Gardiner and is a threat in every tournament she enters.

The forty-ninth California Golf Association Amateur Championship Tournament will be played September 19-25 at Pebble Beach Golf Links and Cypress Point Club course, with the Handicap Tournament on the same dates at Del Monte Golf Course and Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

WOOLSEY-BAXTER GIANTS WIN COMMUNITY LEAGUE SECOND-HALF

League Standings

	Won	Lost	Tied
Giants	5	0	0
Dodgers	3	2	0
Braves	2	4	0
Indians	1	5	0

Managers Bill Woolsey and Howard Baxter steered their hustling Giants to the second-half title in the Community Baseball League for 13-14 year-olds with the Giants breezing through with an undefeated record. The Jim Kelsey-Van King Dodgers made a run at the champs but had to settle for the runner-up spot. Jack Miller and Kiyo Fukagawa's Braves, first-half champions, had trouble in the second-half, but appeared to be saving themselves for the playoff game against the Giants next week.

The Giants sewed up the title Monday night when they blanked the Carmel Valley Indians, 3 to 0, as Mat Little and Tim Mosolf sprinkled the gooseggs on the scoreboard. The Braves eliminated the Dodgers from contention in Tuesday night's game by whipping the King-Kelsey crew, 4 to 3, in a fast well-played game.

The playoff game between the Giants and Braves is scheduled for Tuesday evening at 6:00 o'clock at the Carmel High School diamond.

Playoff of a tie game between the Carmel Valley Indians and the Dodgers is slated for this Saturday morning at 10:30 a.m. at the high school.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

Now that Ronald Ondrejka has been secured as conductor of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra through the American Symphony League's recent workshop at Asilomar, rehearsals will start gain after he arrives this month from New York with his wife and children to live in Carmel. Ondrejka has given up the position of assistant conductor at New York's Radio City Music Hall to be resident conductor here. He comes with a record of being one of the most accomplished of the younger conductors today. Meantime the Symphony Guild has planned a symphony benefit party for August 15 at the Carmel Plaza. Tickets can be obtained through Mrs. Campbell Edgar, Box 3034.

* * *

A late event of the League Workshop that missed review, because of the Bach Festival, was an unscheduled rehearsal of a contemporary work by Shirley Munger of Los Angeles, the only woman's composition yet given at Asilomar. The composer was present and sat at the desk with Dr. Lert, as all the composers did. An Overture for Symphony Orchestra, it reflected an interesting musical nature, and I delighted in hearing a woman's representation since there are too few who obtain opportunity afforded men. Shirley Munger has been teaching at the University of California in Santa Barbara and recently resigned to study for a doctor of musical arts degree in composition, besides receiving a Broadcast Music Fellowship to prepare for work in television.

A letter last week to this writer from Gregory Millar reports that Leonard Bernstein, director of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, specially engaged Millar to conduct West Side Story on tour as far west as Kansas City, with the last two weeks in Buffalo. He will return to New York September 20 as assistant conductor to Bernstein and the Philharmonic which also goes on tour and plays Auguse 26 and 27 at the Opera House in San Franisco under auspices of the S.F. Symphony Association. Tickets are still available at Sherman Clay for both dates.

The Snow White Ballet with Joanne Nix's artistic choreography at the Nix Ballet Theatre Saturday evening was a brilliant advance on last year's performance with appropriate recorded music throughout. Capable dancers from various parts of the country, in Carmel to attend the national Ballet Seminar in session at the Nix School, including Linda Hughes, a dancer from the Walt Disney Studios, were beautifully costumed and performed with skill and charm. Olga Fricker, licentiate certificate holder from the Imperial Society of Dancing Teachers in London and senior examiner of the six instructors of the Seminar, assisted Joanne Nix in the production. The seminar, lasting for a month, adds more wide educational participation and prestige to artistic culture on the Peninsula, also to the Nix School.

Snow White Ballet Sparkles With Youth And Beauty

Snow White, as presented by the Nix Ballet Theater, was a perfect gem in every detail. The sets, the lighting, the music, the beautiful and becoming ballet costumes brought enthusiastic applause from the audience.

The choreography, created by Joanne Nix, following the Cecchetti method, tells the familiar little story with grace and charm, portraying delightfully ever nuance of emotion. It is greatly enhanced by the youth and beauty of the cast, all still in their teens.

It is remarkable that these talented young dancers, under the capable direction of Olga Fricker of Los Angeles, could perform the graceful and intricate choreography so perfectly after only two weeks of rehearsal.

These dedicated young artists come from as far away as Connecticut and Texas, and are here in Carmel for the special workshop seminar offered by the Nix Academy of Ballet.

The Prince, as portrayed by Don Hewitt of Hollywood, added the final touch of elegance and grace to a charming evening's entertainment.

Snow White will be presented again August 12 and 13 at 8:30 o'clock at the Nix Ballet Theater, Eighth and Mission Streets.

Children's Drama At Forest Theatre Richly Rewarding

Last week end at the Forest Theater, attending The Emperor's New Clothes, your reviewer was pleasantly reminded of that fabulous redhead and A Phoenix Too Frequent, seen recently at the Wharf Theater. There was similar rich characterization, the same build-up of every part.

These children from four to 14, who have been attending The Children's Drama Workshop, are learning the mechanics of acting, "the business," that distinguishes a mediocre actor from a polished professional. Of course, these boys and girls are struggling toward the first rung of the ladder of which Miss Agnes Morehead is the scintillating star at the top; but allowing for the difference in ages and background training there is the same fundamental determination to give each part its full and rich interpretation.

Hans Christian Andersen's story, spoofs at vanity and calls for colorful oriental costumes, which add to the charm of the performance.

Congratulations to director De-Vera Marcus and to the mothers, especially the mothers, whose active cooperation was richly rewarded by seeing their children perform so well.

The Emperor's New Clothes will be repeated Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. —Patricia Hall.

R. Petroschka

Rudolph Emil Petroschka, retired postal clerk, died Tuesday evening after a long period of failing health in his home on Lincoln Street between Twelfth and Thirteenth Avenues.

Mr. Petroschka was born in San Francisco on March 26, 1898. He was a World War I veteran and lived in Menlo Park before moving to Carmel a year ago.

He is survived by his wife, Theresa, of Carmel; two daughters by a former marriage, Marie and Norma, living elsewhere; and two sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Cochran of San Francisco and Mrs. Helen B. Johnson of Los Angeles.

Chaplain Donald H. Lehman will officiate at military graveside services tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Friends may call until 9:00 o'clock this evening at Mission Mortuary.

CARMEL UNITY CLASS

The Reverend Sonja Samiran, Unity Truth Church, announces that a study class with prayer service is held in Carmel on Wednesday afternoons at 2:00 o'clock in the Morgan Studio, Lincoln and Seventh. Also that Nancy Stocking will be soloist, accompanied by her husband, at the 11:00 o'clock Sunday service in the House of Four Winds, 540 Calle Principal, Monterey. All interested persons are welcome, she emphasizes.

Sees England Beat S. A.

George C. Dear is back in Carmel after three months in England. He visited his brothers, nephews and nieces in London, saw England beat South Africa in a test match at Lord's Cricket Grounds in St. John's Wood; also more cricket at Hove near Brighton in Sussex.

Mr. Dear attended all the Wimbledon tennis matches, too, during his holiday abroad.

F. J. Creede

Frank J. Creede, retired San Francisco attorney, died in a local hospital on Monday of pneumonia following surgery on a hip fractured four days previously in a fall in his home on Carmel Point.

Mr. Creede was born in San Francisco on November 13, 1892. He was engaged in the practice of law in San Francisco for over 40 years before retiring on December 31, 1958, and coming to live here permanently in the home he had maintained for many years on Isabella Way.

A former vice president and member of the Board of Governors of the State Bar Association, Mr. Creede also served as manager of the State Compensation Insurance Fund and as first president of the University of San Francisco Law Society. He was a member of the Olympic and Commonwealth Clubs in San Francisco.

Survivors are his wife, Letitia, of Carmel; a son, Frank J. Creede, Jr., and four grandchildren, Laurel, Donna, Frank J. III and Mark Creede, all of Fresno.

Funeral services were held this morning in San Francisco at Carew and English Funeral Home followed by a Requiem Mass at St. Ignatius Church. Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mr. Creede may do so in the form of contributions to the National Parkinson's Foundation, Inc., Room 802, 135 East Forty-fourth Street, New York City.

Rachel Snyder

Mrs. Rachel Learnard Snyder, writer of juvenile fiction and a resident of Carmel since 1949, died this morning in a local hospital after a brief illness.

Mrs. Snyder was born in Joliet, Illinois, on July 24,1903. She graduated from the University of Wisconsin with a degree in journalism. Among the children's books she published are Funny Bunny, Mrs. Roo and the Bunnies and Lucky Pete. The latter story had Carmel for its setting. Mrs. Roo and the Bunnies was previewed by Carmel children when, before publication, Mrs. Snyder read them parts of the book during Harrison Memorial Library story hours and also at Woods School. She wrote under the name of Rachel Learnard.

Mrs. Snyder was employed at Pine Inn prior to her last illness and before that worked at Lobos Lodge. She made her home with a friend, Mrs. Louise Ingham, at Camino Real and Ninth Avenue.

Survivors include a brother, R. S. Learnard of Chilicothe, Illinois; and a sister, Mrs. Elbert E. Bates of Joliet, Illinois.

Wilderness Of The West

A monthly column by
C. Edward Graves

18. WHITHER WILDERNESS CONSERVATION?

The recent change in policy of the U. S. Forest Service from its former ideals of wilderness conservation toward what is now being called "multiple use," which is really only a cloak for the "single use" of cutting every mature tree that the lumbermen can lay their hands on, calls perhaps for a short discussion of the history and underlying philosophy of wilderness conservation. In a short column of this kind it must be very sketchy at the best.

The appreciation of the value of wilderness for physical and spiritual recreation—in the latter case, sometimes spelled "re-creation"—was developed in the Forest Service during the late 1920s and 1930s by members of their own staff, especially Aldo Leopold and Robert Marshall. To make a long story short, the practical effect of the thinking of these men was that the Forest Service set aside some eighty areas in many parts of the country as Wilderness, or Wild Areas. The difference between Wilderness and Wild Areas is one of size only. The main difference between these areas and other parts of the national forests is that they are roadless and hence no "development" is possible in them.

Through the 1940s and early 1950s there was no serious challenge to this policy. Then the Forest Service proposed to delete 53,000 acres of the best wilderness in the Three Sisters Wilderness Area in Oregon, so that the timber could be cut. Hearings were held on the issue and the question was debated at great length for several years between proponents of wilderness conservation and those who favored the lumbermen's viewpoint. Many, though not all, of the community leaders in Oregon, not far-sighted enough to realize that IN THE LONG RUN the wilderness values would be much greater than the board-feet value, backed the lumbermen. Finally the decision was made, and approved by the top personnel of the Department of Agriculture, of which the Forest Service is a part, to make the proposed deletion.

Since then, all policy decisions have tended to be away from the viewpoint of the wilderness conservationists. This has forced these groups to look to the national parks, where mature timber is not cut and where real "multiple use" is practiced, as the possible solution of their difficulties: In the national parks not only are wilderness values preserved but water conservation—the most important practical use of wilderness—and wildlife conservation are practiced much more efficiently than in the national forests.

I am sorry that space is not available for extensive quotations from the writings of the Forest Service pioneers, Aldo Leopold and Robert Marshall, on this subject of wilderness conservation. They would show very clearly what the effects of the disastrous change in recent policy will be. They both felt very strongly that a certain amount of wilderness space is needed for the good of the human race. Wilderness is the opposite of mob psychology. Very few thinking persons believe that mob psychology is the answer to anything. Unfortunately not enough people believe that its opposite is necessary for the future good of the human race—yes, even the survival of the human race over the centuries.

I believe with Aldo Leopold and Bob Marshall and other present-day wilderness conservationists that we need more, not less, of the wide and primitive spaces of our western mountains, of the national parks and national forests, of the wildlife refuges, the deserts and the undeveloped sea coasts. Population experts tell us that in 100 years from now there will be ONE BILLION people in this country. What we save of these wilderness spaces in the next 20 or 30 years will be all that we can ever save. There can be no apathy in this humanity-saving work.

Iris Tree's Poetry Reading Found To Be Enriching Experience

By Harriet Keen Roberts

There are some holidays that make us remember that the word was originally holy day. Such a one was last Saturday. In the evening we drove up the Carmel Valley to hear Iris Tree read poetry at the new Tantamount Theatre. It was "a beauteous evening, calm and free." The highest peaks still gleamed golden with the late sunshine, the lower slopes wore veils of cloud, a half moon rode in the sky between the horns of two hills. We felt we had never so completely realized the beauty of Carmel Valley. Then came the spacious, gracious lines of the new theatre which made us think afresh of the marvel of man's ability to build. Then the tall, quiet figure in its straight green gown appeared. One of the three most beautiful voices I have ever heard made poems we had loved all our lives live again in their first freshness and surprise. We met new wonders in poems never heard before. Miss Tree's artistry is so great that it conceals its art. There was no intrusion of the actress on the realm of the poet, only tones that seemed pure music, audible whispers that, for a moment, took us to Xanadu, or let us look through "magic casements opening on the foam of perilous seas, in faery lands forlorn."

In her brief introduction Miss Tree said that we probably knew most of the poems, but she hoped that to hear them in a new voice would make them live again for us. It did indeed, since poetry is, as Miss Tree said, "highly concentrated," it is difficult to listen for a long time at a high pitch of attention. So she gave us two intermissions. Before the first we heard ancient Irish religious poetry, exquisite and childlike: St. Brigit wishing for a lake of beer where the Holy Family might drink through eternity; St. Joseph turning from a natural bitterness ("Let him gather thee cherries that got thee with child") to understanding and love in the touching simplicity of The Cherry Tree Carol; the haunting beauty of the Gaelic, Hospitality; the savagery of an early Scots ballad. It ended with Cleopatra's death from Antony and Cleopatra and we, too, for a moment had "immortal longings on" us.

The middle section had treasures past counting: Dr. Faustus' appeal "Helen, make me immortal with thy kiss," as Christopher Marlowe saw it; Marvel's To his Coy Mistress, Shakespeare sonnets; Keats' Ode to a Nightingale. Kubla Khan's palaces seemed indeed "measureless to man" as Miss Tree almost whispered of their mysteries. We wandered with St. John of the Cross in The Obscure Night of the Soul in Miss Tree's successful translation of that immensely difficult poem. Finally we were taken "East of the sun and west of the moon" to Soria Moria castle with the dying Asa and her wild son Peer, in a translation made by Miss Tree.

The last section was full of modern beauties: I have never heard Gerard Manley Hopkins' The Leaden Echo and the Golden Echo better read, every packed, difficult beauty became hauntingly clear. The comment on a whole lifetime rang in Yeats' "And what of that, O what of that?". Then a poem of Miss Tree's own, an evocation of all the beds, over half a world, in which she had slept, while she dreamed of the countries round them.

Finally there were the great words of what is perhaps the greatest poem in the world, certainly the greatest example of translation, "Isaiah's "Everyone that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, he that hath no money, come ye buy and eat."

That was true for Miss Tree's packed audience, we ate and were full fed with beauty. It passed from Miss True's mind to ours like a golden pollen.

We came away enriched by Miss Tree's emotion—and by her art.

Esther Davis

Mrs. Esther Marion Davis, widow of John Warren Davis, died on Friday in her home at Lincoln Street and Seventh Avenue after a period of failing health.

Mrs. Davis was born in Berkeley on September 13, 1874. She lived in the San Francisco Bay area before moving to Carmel 11 years ago. Her husband died in 1934.

She was a charter member of the San Francisco Musical Club and after coming to Carmel belonged to the Carmel Red Cross Chapter, American Women's Volunteer Services and the Monterey-San Benito County Medical Auxiliary.

Survivors are a nephew, Osborne C. Doane of Atherton; and two nieces, Mrs. Alma Doane Gravem of San Francisco and Mrs. Edith Doane Church of Mill Valley.

Funeral services were held on Saturday at the Little Chapel-by-the Sea. Dr. Joseph M. Ewing, pastor of the Carmel Presbyterian Church, officiated. Inurnment followed in the family plot at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park, Colma.

Ora Fallis Recital Charms Audience At Town House

Ora R. Fallis, voice student of Mary Lindsay-Oliver, presented a recital of folk-style songs Wednesday afternoon at Town House in Carmel. An enthusiastic audience of 40 listened to such melodious favorites as Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes, Annie Laurie, and In the Gloaming.

The program was one of a year-round series of Town House Wednesday afternoon entertainments organized under the direction of Blanche Tolmie, Chairman of the Program Committee. The recital took place in the bright and resonant Helen A. Field Room, which contains a fine Chickering grand piano provided for the use of Town House by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Himmah.

Miss Fallis' pleasant stage presence and ready smile seemed especially suited to the songs in an Irish vein. These included Come Back to Erin, When Love is Kind, and Killarney. The folksy wit of the song-words was well brought out by Miss Fallis' clear diction and gesture. Her charming and fast developing soprano voice was ably supported at the piano by Lindsay-Oliver, among whose many and varied musical gifts must be numbered the art of accompanying. When Miss Fallis appeared in recital at Town House two years ago, a reviewer remarked that she possessed a lovely soprano which would surely improve with further cultivation. The Wednesday recital showed that his prediction has been, to a large degree, fulfilled.

—Joseph R. Turner.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Mankind's opportunity to awaken to God-given freedom will be emphasized at all Christian Science churches next Sunday.

The account in Acts (Ch. 16) of the imprisonment and deliverance of Paul and Silas will be related in the Scriptural readings.

Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include (227:14):

"Discerning the rights of man, we cannot fail to foresee the doom of all oppression. Slavery is not the legitimate state of man. God made man free. Paul said, 'I was free born.' All men should be free. 'Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty.' Love and Truth make free, but evil and error lead into captivity."

The Lesson-Sermon on "Spirit" continues the current series which brings out the nature, essence, and wholeness of God.

Louis Mayers Return Soon

A letter from Mrs. Louis Mayer (Dora Hagemeyer) in Fishkill, New York, says that she and her husband expected to be back in Carmel for the Bach Festival but remained in the East for Mr. Mayer to work on a new portrait of his friend, Dr. Albert Schweitzer. They will return to their Carmel home during August, however.

Back in Carmel is Anne Hagemeyer, who, according to her grandmother's letter, "was charmed with the greenness of this landscape and with the varied sequence of wildflowers along the roadside."

"At present," continues Mrs. Mayer, "the purple loosestrife is in full glory, and with the delicate Queen Anne's lace and the lovely blue of chicory makes a sight to be remembered."

Anne flew home in the middle of July after seeing the sights of New York City, many interesting places in New York State, also Old Sturbridge Village in Massachusetts.

"It is a regional museum of early American life," Mrs. Mayer reports. "The little village is arranged just as an old one must have been. The cottages and workshops are authentic, having been brought there from various places and reconstructed. They contain treasures of handmade furniture and all sorts of other antiques. The Quinebaug River flows through the village to provide power for the grist mills which are all in working order."

Anne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hagemeyer and a Carmel High School student.

Tea For Mrs. Chapman

Mrs. Margaret Aitkenhead entertained 14 friends yesterday afternoon at a tea in honor of her mother, Mrs. Gale J. Chapman, who has returned from an eastern visit.

Mrs. Chapman spent the past three months visiting her other daughters; one in Newbury, Masachusetts; a second in Cleveland, Ohio, and another in Highland Park, Illinois.

Gerald Transfers to Davis

Gerald B. Crane will attend the University of California at Davis next year. He is a transfer from Sacramento City College and at Davis plans to major in psychology in the College of Letters and Science. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Crane of Carmel.

Approximately 1,000 new students are expected on the Cal Aggie campus this fall, according to Registrar Howard B. Schontz. Total enrollment at Davis in September is expected to be 2,750 students, an increase of ten percent over last fall.

Bonny Shafer Wed On Sunday

Organ music filled the Church of the Wayfarer on Sunday afternoon while guests gathered for the marriage of Bonny Shafer and Bert Macahilig. Dr. K. Filmore Gray performed the double ring ceremony at 4:00 o'clock before the candlelit altar decorated with white stock and carnations.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Art Peterson of Watsonville. Rows of lace flowers trimmed the fitted bodice, waistline and short full skirt of her white taffeta gown over which was a nylon organdy overdress with a scoop neckline, full three quarter length sleeves and a bow at the waistline in back extending in flowing streamers to the hemline. Her shoulder length Queen Anne veil was pearl-trimmed and she carried a cascade bouquet of lilies of the valley surrounding a white orchid.

Susan Fernandez was the bride's attendant. She wore a rose-colored taffeta and organdy frock, similar in style to the bride's, but unadorned except for a tiny satin sash. Seed pearls trimmed the veil of her small white hat which matched her shoes and she carried a crescent bouquet of white carnations.

Mrs. Jose Fernandez and Benny Yeban, wedding sponsors, stood with the bridal couple at the altar. Mrs. Fernandez wore a champagne lace sheath dress with light blue hat, shoes and accessories.

Peter Edmonds was best man for the groom and ushers were the groom's stepbrother, Rene Requiro, and Bob Durbrow.

Mrs. Peterson attended her daughter's marriage in a rust suit worn with a white butterfly orchid corsage, tan veiled hat and accessories.

Mrs. Plaridel Macahilig, mother of the groom, wore a light blue pure silk print suit, a tiny black and white hat, white orchid corsage and beige shoes and accessories.

The reception following the ceremony was held in the American Legion Hall. Blue and white streamers caught with rosettes formed a ceiling in the reception room and white carnations and greenery decorated the table on which stood the three-tiered wedding cake.

The bridal couple honeymooned in San Francisco this week and will make their home in Carmel.

The bride attended Carmel schools before leaving last year to live in Watsonville where she completed her schooling and graduated from Watsonville High School in June. She was a majorette at Carmel High School during her sophomore and junior years.

The groom graduated from Carmel High School in 1956 and continued his education at Monterey Peninsula College and Harbor College in Southern California. At present he is associated in the restaurant business with his father in Carmel, but plans further studies in the fall at MPC.

Out of town relatives at the wedding included the groom's uncle, Pastor Ricaforte, and his cousin, Penny Macahilig, both from Los Angeles; his uncle, Fred Isorda with his family from Santa Maria; another uncle, Cherubin Roldan, and Mrs. Roldan, and a cousin, Mrs. Columna Raz, all from San Francisco.

Jean Kellogg Weds James Dickie

Presently in Southern California on a wedding trip are Mr. and Mrs. James Dickie. They were married on Sunday afternoon in the bride's home in Carmel Highlands. Dr. Joseph M. Ewing, pastor of the Carmel Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony. Among the guests were the bride's aunt, Mrs. Regula Bernays of Piedmont; her cousin, Mrs. James Melden of Seattle; and the groom's mother, Mrs. J. W. Smith of Santa Cruz.

Mrs. Dickie, the former Jean Kellogg, is the daughter of the late Dr. Vernon Kellogg, distinguished Stanford entomologist who first came to Carmel in 1895, and the late Charlotte Hoffman Kellogg, writer and humanitarian. She is a painter and graphic artist.

Stated Masonic Meeting

Carmel Lodge No. 680, F. & A. M., will hold a stated meeting tomorrow evening at 8:00 o'clock. A dinner at 6:30 o'clock will precede the meeting. There will be entertainment. All members and sojourners are invited to attend.

Ingrid Vevang, Saturday Bride

Married in the Chapel of the Presidio of Monterey on Saturday were Ingrid Vevang of Trondheim, Norway, and Harlan Mohn, Army Language School Russian student.

The bride's embroidered white pique gown had a short bouffant skirt. A seed pearl bow held her shoulder-length veil in place, and she carried an oldfashioned lace-edged bouquet of white baby roses circled with white carnations.

She was attended by Greta Pevick, also from Trondheim, who wore a full-skirted light blue flower-embroidered organdy gown and a gardenia corsage.

Gary Lee Hudson of Pasadena, a fellow student of the groom at the Language School, was best man.

The wedding reception was held in Carmel at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Niels Reimers. A white lace cloth over white satin covered the bride's table on which stood the three-tiered wedding cake between silver vases of lilies of the valley. Mrs. Reimers and her niece, Berglot Reimers, presided at the champagne punch bowl.

The young couple will live in Carmel on Camino Real near Ocean Avenue. They met shortly after the bride arrived from Norway seven months ago. She flew here with her friend, Greta Pevick, with plans to visit in this country for two years. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ingimann Vevang of Trondheim.

Her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jesse C. Mohn of Farmer, South Dakota. His paternal grandparents were born in Norway near his bride's home.

Guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Brown, Kathy Brown, Miriam Jones, Ora R. Fallis, Niels Reimers, Jr., Gunnar Reimers and John Grech.

Ethelwyn Watts

Ethelwyn Stagg Watts, wife of Major Ruskin Watts (USAF ret.), died Tuesday morning in a local hospital after a period of ill health. She had been a resident of Carmel Highlands since October 1, 1959.

Mrs. Watts formerly owned and directed Stagg Manor, a private school in Danville, California, where she lived before moving here. She was born on February 3, 1898, in Orange, New Jersey, and received her early education in Connecticut, at schools in Danbury and New Haven. She was a graduate of Connecticut State Teachers College and did postgraduate work at Yale University before obtaining a degree from the University of California. Her husband, Major Watts, is vice president of the Alfred Allen Watts Company Inc. of New York.

She is survived, in addition to her husband, by three brothers, Robert Arthur Stagg of Plainville, Connecticut, Carl Stagg of New Haven, Connecticut, and Donald Albert Stagg of San Francisco; a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Post of New Haven, Connecticut; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services, conducted by the Reverend David Hill, rector, in All Saints' Episcopal Church were held this morning. Burial will take place tomorrow morning at 11:00 o'clock in the family plot in Alamo Cemetery, Contra Costa County. Paul Mortuary is in charge of local arrangements.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mrs. Watts may do so in the form of donations to the American Cancer Research Society, Box 1028, Monterey.

Anna Spicker

Miss Anna Mabel Spicker, retired teacher and resident of Carmel for 45 years, was found dead on Saturday in her home at San Carlos Street and Third Avenue. A neighbor, disturbed because she had not seen Miss Spicker for several days, investigated and discovered her in bed. Death occurred probably about a week earlier, and was due to natural causes, according to County Coroner Christopher Hill, Jr.

Miss Spicker was born on March 26, 1885, in Waseca, Minnesota. She helped organize Forest Hill School in Carmel when it was opened many years ago.

Two sisters survive her. They are Mrs. Clara E. Harrison and Mrs. Flora Lenk, both of Los Angeles.

The Reverend George Lutz, minister of the First Methodist Church of Pacific Grove, conducted funeral services for Miss Spicker in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea on Tuesday. Interment was in Inglewood Cemetery, Southern California.

Survivors are his wife, Virginia; a daughter, Miss Irene LeMon of New York; a son, Reginald D. LeMon of Long Beach; and two grandchildren.

Private funeral services were held in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mr. LeMon may do so in the form of donations to the Peninsula Community Hospital Building Fund, Box 986, Monterey.

City Council . . .

61 street maintenance program from the Street Superintendent, Whitaker noted that the program called for less than expended in previous years.

The Lands and Improvements Committee received warm praise from the mayor for its reports and recommendations which, he claimed, were enabling the council to get through its agenda in record time: "It shows the committee system's really working!"

Three new signs were approved for the Leidig Texaco Service which, though requiring excess-footage variance, will be hand-carved in wood, thus eliminating the last enamel-on-metal gas station signs in town. Sign variance was also granted to I. Magnin for cast-bronze lettering to run along three facades of its new store.

City purchase was recommended for a driveway in street right-of-way at Third west of Mission; the matter was referred to the Committee on Adjustments.

The council received reports from the building inspector and Ailing House Pest Control on estimated costs of rebuilding the stage floor at the Forest Theatre; revised estimate now runs to $3,900. The reports will be studied prior to the budget session on August 19.

Request of Sidney Dibble for a driveway variance at Wayfarer Inn to permit access to three off-street parking spaces was put over until the council's next inspection tour.

Referred to the forthcoming budget session was possibility of constructing a footpath along the East side of Devendorf Park on Junipero.

Among items continued to the next council meeting were proposals to adopt a mutual aid police protection agreement with other Peninsula cities and the county; investigation of litter control on beaches in conjunction with local service clubs; recommendation from the PTA Safety Committee regarding the fencing of swimming pools as a safety measure; and proposal of Councilman Norberg that the city make recommendations to the Monterey County Cooperative Council regarding extended extra-territorial authority for cities. Mayor Putnam declined to debate the latter proposal until the Committee on Public Welfare comes up with a specific recommendation.

The meeting adjourned following reading of a letter from Cub Scout Pack 48 thanking the council for assistance in its tree planting program and motion by Councilman Whitaker that the council, in turn, write a letter of thanks to the Scouts.

Preceding last night's meeting, councilmen saw a five-minute film on the activities of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department prepared by Chief Robert Smith. The Fire Department would like the council to approve purchase of the 8mm movie camera for use as a training aid.
